

FOR LABOR AND SOCIAL SOLIDARITY

Desislava Yaneva¹

Summary:

This article considers the fundamental category of “labor” as an object of various scientific disciplines. Follows the development of labor issues in the context of various economic and sociological theories. Rethinking the correlation between division of labor and social solidarity in the field of industrial relations in Bulgaria and raises the need to define an indicator measuring the regulations of labor and directly related relations, imposed by law as an obligation of the state through the mechanism “tripartite cooperation”.

Key words: labor; labor economics; labor law; social solidarity; labor
Regulations; social dialogue

JEL: A14; B12; B41

¹Desislava Yaneva, PhD student at the Center for Empirical Social Research at the Institute of Philosophy and Sociology at the Bulgarian Academy of Sciences - Sofia, dmargaritova@gmail.com