

SOCIAL DIALOGUE BASED ON MEASUREABLE INDICATORS

Desislava Yaneva¹, Vasil Kirov²

Abstract:

Improving the industrial relations regulation is a key factor for dealing with the challenges in a dynamically changing environment, influenced by various globalization processes. The social dialogue might play an important role for such regulation, but in the Bulgarian context it doesn't rely on data and measurable indicators on which base the tripartite partners to take informed decisions. The analysis of the results of an author's research with semi-structured interview and survey shows the expectations of the social partners and formulates examples of indicators to lead to an evidence - based dialogue.
